Statement of Land Acknowledgement

We wish to acknowledge this land on which the University of Toronto operates.

For thousands of years it has been the traditional land of the Huron-Wendat, the Seneca, and the Mississaugas of the Credit.

Today, this meeting place is still the home to many Indigenous people from across Turtle Island and we are grateful to have the opportunity to work on this land.

Who We Are

Founded in the late sixties as a small college in a small town, UTM has grown into a catalyst of creativity, innovation and positive social change for Canada's largest cities.

We're now the second largest division of Canada's top-ranked university, leading game-changing research and teaching that lifts up our students, our region and our world.

How it Started

The story of Erindale College began when the University of Toronto purchased land along the winding Credit River in the early 1960s, comprising farmland and an elegant 1885 stone house, Lislehurst, in a village called Springfield-on-the-Credit.

How it's Going

Now, in 2023, we provide a home to over 16,100 students and 1,250 permanent faculty, librarians and staff.

We strengthen Ontario's reputation as a national and global hub for post-secondary education as we work to give our students the lift of a lifetime: about 60% of our Canadian students come from low-income backgrounds; our 4,500 international students come from more than 130 countries around the world.

UTM's Strategic Framework

UTM's Strategic Framework provides focus for our campus and partners. It expresses core priorities that will strengthen consensus, inspire action and guide investment.

This Framework aims to strengthen this trust with work in five priority areas. Arranged in a circle to suggest their non-hierarchical unity, these priorities name our intention to foster student success and empower research discovery and impact; to encourage collaboration and belonging, and build efficient and sustainable operations; and to embrace our place, locally, globally and institutionally across U of T.

These actions revolve around a central focus on truth, openness and reciprocity.
