From reconciliation to race relations to the #MeToo movement, Canada faces crucial challenges of diversity and inclusion. Join us to learn how Senator Ratna Omidvar's personal story has influenced her pioneering work on diversity/inclusion and immigration/refugee policy. This session will be moderated by Professor Erin Tolley, an expert on immigration, race, and Canadian politics.

The Honourable Ratna Omidvar, an Independent Senator for Ontario and Distinguished Visiting Professor at Ryerson University, is an internationally recognized voice on migration, diversity and inclusion. She has held important posts at the Global Future Council on Migration hosted by the World Economic Forum, the World Refugee Council, the Environics Institute, Samara Canada, the Toronto Region Immigrant Employment Council, and Lifeline Syria.

Erin Tolley is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at UTM and the author of the award-winning book Framed: Media and the Coverage of Race in Canadian Politics (UBC Press, 2016).
