

HISTORY OF RELIGIONS (HBA)

Department of Historical Studies

History of Religions examines religions from both “outsider” and “insider” perspectives within their historical, cultural, social, and political contexts. The program uses various academic approaches — historical, literary, anthropological, sociological, etc. — to consider how religions have shaped, and been shaped by, the story of humanity. Doing this involves examining specific religions such as Buddhism, Islam, and Indigenous traditions, as well as comparative topics like religion and gender, or religion and popular culture. Studying religion means looking at symbols, rituals, texts, media, art, and more, thinking about all the ways in which people in all times and places construct and live within worlds of meaning .

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR TIME AT UTM!

We want to help you maximize your university experience, so we've pulled together information and interesting suggestions to get you started, although there are many more! As you review the chart on the inside pages, note that many of the suggestions need not be restricted to the year they are mentioned. In fact, activities such as joining an academic society, engaging with faculty and seeking opportunities to gain experience should occur in each year of your study at UTM. Read through the chart and create your own plan using My Program Plan found at www.utm.utoronto.ca/program-plans

The study of religion can enhance our understanding of popular Hollywood films. What do rituals mean in comedies and horror movies? How is the Bible related to superheroes? Find out in RLG332H5 (Reel Religion) — a course that considers the connections between religions and films that appear to have no connection to religion.

What can I do with my degree?

FUTURE STUDENTS

Admission to UTM

All program areas require an Ontario Secondary School Diploma, or equivalent, with six Grade 12 U/M courses, or equivalent, including English. The admission average is calculated with English plus the next best five courses. The approximate average required for admission is mid- to high-70s. More information is available at utm.utoronto.ca/viewbook.

NOTE: During the application process, applicants will select the Humanities admissions category but will not officially be admitted to a formal program of study (Specialist, Major, and/or Minor) until after first year.

Sneak Peek

How does religion shape popular culture? How does popular culture shape religion? Trace the history of these questions from the early modern period through the twenty-first century in RLG211H5. Learn about the vast array of global Indigenous religions, with a focus on North American traditions, in RLG209H5.

History of Religions is excellent preparation for living and working in a cosmopolitan and multiconfessional world.
